

Feedback for Operating Systems – Question 2

Most sub-parts of this question were highly marked on average. The following are the main areas where points were lost:

- 2a) Most students had the correct intuition following the previous calculations, but very few were able to provide complete explanations with well-reasoned arguments. Many students tried to provide a quantified answer by calculating page sizes and made mistakes there, although we accepted partially correct answers that showed knowledge through simple estimations.
- 2c) Many students provided long explanations of how the different virtualization mechanisms worked, without clearly or at all identifying their respective advantages/disadvantages. A large portion of students assigned general challenges in virtualization as being problems specific to a single virtualization approach, which is incorrect.
